Chapter 1 by SuperFolder Ghostbuster

You might be asking me what I'm doing, sailing a ship headed for the corners of the Earth. Well, you might not believe me, but I am looking for other pieces of a treasure map. I have one piece, and now I am going to hunt down the other pieces of the map to try to get the treasure it leads to. Who am I you might ask? sit right down and I'll tell you.

It all began a couple years ago when I started out as a young midshipman for a captain named Bonmark. We were sailing in the merchant business but occasionally when business was scarce we took to "commandeering" other merchant vessels in the area. Of course we mostly went after smaller ships that wouldn't have made it anyways so technically we did them a favour.

Eventually we caught the attention of actual pirates who, suffice to say, weren't very pleased with our intrusion on their hunting grounds.

Their greeting to us was far less than cordial. In fact, it was more of a warning - get out of our territory or we'll kill you and set fire to your homes sort of thing.

'Course, we didn't listen to them. We kinda thought ourselves as invincible. I mean - we hadn't got caught by the authorities yet and in our arrogance we figured we could hold off a couple (hundred) pirates too.

That's when things got a bit messier.

We then sailed into another ship that was more dangerous than the last. The ship we sailed into had a black flag with a red skull on it and the ship was captained by a man named Howard the Kraken". The moment Howard boarded our ship, he stabbed Bonmark with his golden cutlass and commanded his crew to attack the rest of us. I grabbed Bonmark's cutlass and attacked several crew members with it. I may have even knocked some people off of the ship. Most of the crew did the same thing to defend themselves. Very few of our crew have died, but I still thrived on. I decided that I would attack Howard the Kraken. Our duel was ferocious. I had no idea that my sword skills were that good. But his golden cutlass has given me a scar on my left check, and my resistance only went downhill from there as his sword was pointed at my neck. That was until one of my fellow crew mates snuck aboard Howard's ship and used one of his cannons to fire at Howard. The only thing I have to remember both my old captain Bonmark and Howard the Kraken by are both their swords that I wield into battle. But that is not all that I carry, as inside Howard's pouch was the first piece of the map. I then presumed myself as captain of both ships and crews and their unification has presumed me as captain. Now we were on our way to find the other pieces of the map.
